2. Methodology, scope and limitations

How the content was collected

- Public content was collected from the page <https://www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=61591177181171> on 2026-10-21 07:43 UTC using a dedicated research account; collection ran in a headless browser session and captured the visible post and comment texts.
- Each item carries a SHA-256 hash of its original text and a collection timestamp, so any excerpt in this report can be re-verified against the raw JSON/CSV export that accompanies it.
- Author names are NOT pseudonymised — this file contains real identity data and must be stored securely and minimised before wider use.

How the items were classified

- Every item was classified by the language model “qwen3-8b (local, LM Studio)”, running entirely on the analyst's machine (LM Studio). No text was transmitted to any cloud service.
- The model judged each item against the taxonomy in section 3: whether it targets a woman or women because of gender, on a scale none → low → medium → high → critical, with a per-item confidence score, a target group, a language guess and a short verbatim evidence excerpt.
- Flagged items are sorted by severity, then by confidence. Statistics and charts in section 4 cover flagged items only.

Limitations — read before acting on any finding

- Model output is an automated first-pass flag, not a legal or factual determination. A human must review every flagged item before it is used in reports, publications, takedown requests or complaints.
- Dialects (esp. Arabic, Tunisian Darija and Arabizi), sarcasm, coded language and missing context can cause false positives and false negatives. Quotes are excerpts, not complete items.
- Sampling stops at the configured post limit and comment threads may be incomplete; the absence of flags is not proof of absence of GBV.
